The Christian edition of the Cosmopolitan Magazine is one hundred thousand copies It contains a feature never before attempted by any magazine, consisting of 123 cartoons from the brush of Dan Beard, the now famous artist. These cartoons are placed at the bottom of each page of the magazine, and take for their subject, "Christmas during the Eighteen Centuries of the Christian Era."

—The Sackett-Kinzie Co. opened a week's engagement at the Opera House last night in D. K. Higgins' sensational story of city life, entitled "The Night Watch." The company is a very good one, and presented the play in a very creditable manner. To-night, for the first time in this city, the great four act drama entitled "Kidnapped"

—The people of China having worried along ten or a dozen thousand years, more or less, as they claim, without gold or silver coin, King Kwang-hsu has concluded to establish a mint for the purpose of producing silver coins, and he purchased the machinery in this country. Around the open ports of that country the Mexican and Japanese coins were current. But throughout the country silver was taken by weight and carried about in small blocks from which the necessary amount was knocked off with chisel and hammer. Proclamations have now been issued with the imperial sanction, requiring all persons to take the new coins in payment. These explain that the coins have been made in Canton, and that they are in future to be used as coins.

—Eugene Malloy with his usual enterprise has placed in his sample room, as we have heretofore stated, a phonograph of the latest improved design. Indeed of all the wonders of this nineteenth century, and there have been many, the steam engine, the telegraph, telephones, steam presses and the rest, taking all in all the phonograph is the most marvelous of them all. It is the wonder of this age. The machine recently purchased by Mr. Malloy rattles off "Annie Rooney," "A march by Cappi's Seventh Regiment Band,' speeches, etc., without a kick. "You press the button, we do the rest." It is a five cent button you press. This is one of the most remarkable of Edson's many inventions and an honor to American genius.

—From the New York Sun, which is not a Republican paper, we learn that a lot of English, Scotch, Irish and French men are running about this country now looking for favorable sites on which to erect mills and factories, where linens, hosiery and woolen dress goods can be made. They are hunting, too, for mills that have been shut down, or they are willing to purchase an interest in American mills where these goods are manufactured. They are the agents of owners of mills in Europe, which have for some years been supplying the American market with all the fine linen consumed here and with stacks of woolen hosiery that have been sold by the American storekeepers The new tariff is responsible for the agents' raid. The new rates of duty on the product of the European looms threaten to ruin their trade with America, and just as a matter of self-defense they are going to move over here and manufacture their goods. They won't shut up their European mills, but none of the products of those mills will be put on our counters.

—Considering it a severe blow to Protection the most delighted people on account of the recent election are the English manufacturers, as we learn through the papers that come to us from the old country. They fully believe that, as "The London Economist" says, "the protective system is sure to begin to go to pieces," the disintergration is "bound to produce a collapse," and the repeal of the new tariff cannot long be delayed." American voters can learn something from the reasons which that journal gives Speaking of the hope that new industries would be started here to supply the home market, it says:

"If the manufacturers could have been assured of the continuance of protection, they would no doubt have acted in accordance with this forecast. The feeling, however, that there is now no small risk of the repeal of the tariff will prevent their embarking upon any such action," etc.

The English editor going on to explain that the Democrats will probably repeal enough of the law to stop any contemplated progress in the erection of new factories There is some truth in the suggestion. Entirely in accordance with this anticipation is the statement telegraphed from Pittsburg that some firms and companies which were about to start tin plate works at once have concluded not to do so, because they fear the new duty may be repealed before the work could get fairly into operation.

The Perry property must be sold. It is very desirable for investments. It is the center of growth in Dixon. It is one block east of shoe factory and college; one block west of central depot on First street. The switch runs thrugh it. It runs to the river and the proposed Hennepin canal. The route for the street railway runs by it. It has every possible advantage, and now is the time to invest and be ready for the spring sales. Make a bid before it is too late.

REAL ESTATE.

If any man tells you that property in Dixon will ever be cheaper than now set him down as a "croaker."

Many new houses will be needed and must be built next season to supply the demand. Take a look about the city and you will observe that real desirable lots within easy distance of the business center of the city are becoming scarce. Money invested in such property now will most assuredly pay a good profit.

I have in my hands for sale all of the unsold lots at "HIGHLAND PARK." Go and look it over and note the improvements going on. HIGHLAND PARK looks better every time you see it.

All of "BELLEVIEW" nearest the college, shoe factory and business center. Property in all parts of the city including many houses and some business property. If you want to either buy or sell call and see me.

C. H. HUGHES.

BELLEVIEW!

The location of this addition is most desireable to those who desire to reside near the great manufacturing institution on the South Side: also the College, being only about ten minutes walk from either.

Few people know anything definite about distances in their own town or city outside of their several routes from home to office, store or shop. Let us give you a few points in Dixon. From the Post Office to the College by the nearest traveled route is about 3600, to the Shoe Factory 3600 feet, and to the Grand Detour Plow Factory 4950 feet. From "Belleview" to College 2500, to the Shoe Factory 3100 feet, to the Grand Detour Factory 3600 feet. "Belleview" is within easy reach of some of the great industries of our city and will be still nearer to those of the future. A few good lots are still for sale at $200. each.

The site commands a splended view in every direction, soil dry and most suitable for residences, drainage excellent, and two of the great highways leading to the City, pass the grounds. Values are sure to advance in the near future, and those wishing homes will make no mistake in investing on these lots.

BANK STATISTICS.

The Currency Comptroller Presents Some Figures

BUDGET OF USEFUL INFORMATION

For Those Interested in the National Bank Question—Business That Runs Up into the Billions—Decreased Cost of Domestic Exchange—Percentage of Cash Used in Transactions—A Claim That the System Is the Only One That Is Elastic.

WASHINGTON CITY, Nov. 25.—The forthcoming report of Mr. Lacey, the comptroller of the currency, will contain full information in reference to the affairs of national banks, and will cover the operations of the bureau for the twelve months ended Oct. 31, 1890. During this period 807 new associations have been organized, 50 have gone into voluntary liquidation and 9 have been placed in the hands of receivers. The net increase is 248, constituting a larger growth than during any similar period since 1865. The number of active banks on Oct. 31, 1890, was 3,567, which is an increase over any previous date. These banks have in capital stock $659,782,865; bonds deposited to secure circulation, $140,190,900, and bank notes outstanding $179,855,643, including $54,706,907 represented by lawful money deposited to redeem circulation still outstanding.

Condition at Last Report.

The Gross decrease in circulation during year, including notes of gold, banks, and those of failed and liquidating associations, was $22,267,772, and the decrease in circulation secured by United States bonds was $5,248,540. On Oct. 2, 1890, the date of the last report of condition, 3,540 banks were open for business. Gross deposits, including amounts due banks, were stated at $2,023,502,967; loans and discounts, $1,970,022,627; an increase in each of these items over any previous date. They held $195,208,869 in specie; $80,604,631 in legal tender notes; $18,402,392 in national bank notes, and $6,155,000 in United States certificates of deposit.

Bank Business and Its Cost.

Reports received and tabulated show that drafts were drawn by 3,529 national banks upon their correspondents during the year ended June 30, 1890, aggregating $11,553,898,255, at an average cost to the purchaser of 8½ cents premium on each $100, being about 1-12 of 1 per cent. A comparison is made with conditions existing prior to the establishment of the national system, when 1 per centum was the average rate of premium on domestic exchange.

Proportion of Cash to Checks, Etc.

The comptroller has obtained and published returns exhibiting the proportion of coin, paper money, checks and drafts used in banking operations, as shown by detailed statements of the receipts of the national associations on July 1, and September 17, 1890. For the first date reports were received from 3,364 national banks. Their total receipts on that day were $421,824,726. Of the total receipts 7.50 per cent. consisted of coin and paper money, and the remainder, 92.50 per cent. in checks, drafts and other substitutes for money. The total receipts of 3,474 national banks for Sept. 17, 1890, is stated at $327,278,251, of which coin and paper money constituted 8.96 per cent., and checks, drafts, etc., 91.04 per cent.

Comparison with 1881.

Similar statistics were produced in 1881. A comparison shows that a larger proportion of coin and paper money enter into banking operations in 1890 than in 1881. These percentages for the two days in 1881 are 4.87 and 4.91 respectively; in 1890, for similar dates, 7.50 and 8.96 per centum. The increased use of money in banking operations here shown is equal to 68 per cent, and is deemed significant when considered in connection with the present apparent insufficiency in the amount of coin and paper money in circulation. It is suggested in explanation that a great change has taken place during the past nine years in the matter of credits, and that all commodities are now sold on shorter time and to a much larger extent for cash than formerly.

A Good Word for the System.

The comptroller expresses the opinion that the evident lack of currency necessary to the proper conduct of business during the past few months, is greatly aggravated by the retirement of national bank notes, which form of paper money alone posseses that elastic property so essential in a perfect circulation. All money issued directly by the government, whether coin or paper, is necessarily non-elastic, by reason of its being in all cases available for the lawful money reserve of national banks, and in most cases possessing the legal tender quality.

JOHN FINERTY'S PREDICTION.

Ireland To Be Annexed by Uncle Sam Within Fifty Years.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The Twenty-third anniversary of the hanging of Allen, Larkin, and O'Brien, at Manchester, England, was observed by the Irish Nationalists at Cooper Union hall last night. The hall was crowded. Congressman-Elect John R. Fellows presided. The address of the meeting was made by Hon. John R. Finerty, of Chicago, who spoke on the "Manchester martyrs." Mr. Finerty did not confine himself to his subject strictly, but entered upon Ireland's wrongs and her relations to England. He said Ireland's cause to-day was deplorable. If she could be a free country, he would like to see her a part of the United States. He predicted that in fifty years Ireland would be one of the brightest stars in the American flag.

Cleveland a Convert to Bi-Metallism.

WASHINGTON CITY, Nov. 25.—The Critic last evening published the story that ex-President Cleveland has become a convert to the double standard coinage theory, and that he wrote a letter to Senator Vest some time ago which the Missouri senator showed to some of his colleagues, admitting that he had been wrong in his view of the currency question and that he was ready to announce his conversion.

Two Brothers Drowned.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Nov. 25.—Two brothers, Sammy and Eddie Weller, were drowned in Moody Pond, Saranac lake, yesterday. The youngest, aged 10, went on the pond to skate, although warned by his brother. Sammy sat by the window, and saw his brother break through the ice. Rushing to his rescue, he reached over to seize hold of him, but the ice gave way and both were drowned.

THE INDIAN SITUATION.

No Change, but Plenty of Talk About Trouble That Is Coming.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—The Indian situation, according to Gen. Miles, has undergone no change, for the worse, at least. Indeed the general went so far as to say that the indications were stronger for peace than at any time since the scare began. To "a man up a tree" it begins to look as though there had been much ado about mighty little, and that if the redskins are only permitted to dance to their heart's content no trouble will occur. It may yet turn out, however, that it is another case of starving or swindled Indians raising a rumpus for their own.

News From Pine Ridge.

Dispatches from Pine Ridge Agency say there is not a sign of war. The Indians were coming into the agency all day yesterday getting their rations, but Little Wound was still recalcitrant. The children are going to school as usual, and everything is quiet. From other points dispatches say that the whites are still fleeing to the towns, although nobody has been killed yet or even shot at. Occasionally a crowd of bucks talk loud to a white man, but so far talk is all. The Indians say that the white man has his Messiah, and they will have theirs. All they want is to possess him in peace.

Plenty of Soldiers.

Opinion, where the facts are known, is gradually crystalizing into the belief that if the Indians are let alone the frenzy will wear itself out without doing any one harm. Judging from the number of troops it generally takes to thrash Mr. Lo there should be enough on the ground very soon to make a rising a bad thing for the redskins. Four troops of cavalry were sent to Pine Ridge from Fort Leavenworth yesterday. Still, the Indian is mighty "onsartin," and there may be trouble yet.

CLEVELAND ON INGALLS.

The Ex-President Rejoices in the Defeat of His Enemy.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—A special to The Herald from Kansas City says: Nelson A. Ayers, internal revenue collector of Kansas under Cleveland, has received a letter from the ex-president, in which he says: "There is no one thing of the same grade of importance which has resulted from the recent election, which ought to please Democrats and decent people so much as the prospects of the retirement of Ingalls. I do not know what kind of a Democrat it would be who would not labor in season and out of season to prevent the return to the senate of this villifier of everything Democratic, who has been put forward by the Republican party to pour out abuse too bad for even decent Republicans, and who was made the presiding officer of the senate to crown their insults to our party."

Tin Plate Mill at Chicago.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 25.—The Chicago Tin-Plate company, a new concern which will receive its charter this week, has ordered from a Pittsburg firm rolls and finishing machinery for a capacity of 2,500 boxes of plate per week. The president of the company is the general manager of one of the western railroad systems, and the stockholders are all railroad men. Mr. Parker, formerly with the Illinois Steel company, will be manager of the new works.

Col. Denby for Vice President.

WASHINGTON CITY, Nov. 25.—There is an undercurrent of considerable strength among Democratic leaders here in favor of Col. Denby, minister to China, a resident of Evansville, Ind., for the vice presidential place on the ticket in 1892. They say that he was a brave and brilliant soldier; that he has made no antagonisms, and would command the vote of every man who believed in the principles of the party.

Fate and the Hapsburgs.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—The emperor of Austria is represented as deeply cast down by the probable fate of his relative, the Archduke John, the third great calamity during his reign in the Hapsburg family; his brother, Maximillan having been shot in Mexico, and his son and heir, Rudolph, having committed suicide.

Fear a Strike of 10,000 Men.

SCOTTDALE, Pa., Nov. 25.—The Knights of Labor officials and Manager Lynch, of the Frick Coke company met, yesterday, and failed to agree on the one-third shutdown trouble. A notice was served on the company threatening a strike in six days, if the matter is not settled. The leaders fear a strike of 10,000 men.

Another Rascally Cashier.

PEORIA, Ills., Nov. 25.—P. S. Stubenrauch, cashier of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway freight offices, was arrested yesterday, charged with a defalcation amounting to $18,000. He has been violently ill for some time, and cannot attend his preliminary hearing.

Parnell Characterized as a Jonah.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—The Daily News (Liberal) warns Parnell that home rule cannot be carried if he continues in the leadership. "The Irish vessel has struck a rock just as it was entering the harbor. It can easily be floated, but it has a Jonah aboard."

Failed to Send Out a Flagman.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 25.—Two trains on the Illinois Central railway collided near Dubuque, Ia., Sunday morning and one man, Edward Russell, was fatally injured. Several others were seriously injured. There had been a failure to send out a flagman.

Killed the Fireman.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 25.—A Cheyenne special says: A head-end collision between freight trains occurred at Howells, Wyo., yesterday. Both engines and a number of cars were demolished. Fireman Foote was killed.

Concealed His Terrible Malady.

BUDA PESTH, Nov. 25.—Count Julius Karolyi, the well-known Hungarian statesman, died yesterday of cancer of the tongue. He concealed his malady until nearly the last moment.

Raid on Liquor Dealers.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 25.—Fifteen wholesale liquor dealers of the First and Second wards were arrested last night charged with selling liquor without a license. Ten gave bail in the sum of $1,000 each.

The Elections in Italy.

ROME, Nov. 25.—The results of Sunday's elections in 391 districts are: Ministerialists, 314; Radicals, 36; Oopposition Left, 20; Right, 10; Socialists, 8; uncertain 8.

BELMONT DEAD.

The Great New York Banker Called Hence.

FACTS FROM HIS LIFE HISTORY.

A Man Whose Character Had Many Sides and All of Them Square—His Brave Defiance of a Bully Who Spoke Insultingly of Woman—An Art Patron of Discrimination and Taste and a Turfman Whose Honor Was Above Suspicion.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The death of August Belmont at 3 a. m. yesterday at his home in this city ended the career of one of the most extensive bankers in the world. He took a severe cold at the horse show last week, which developed into pneumonia and rapidly sapped the foundations of his life. He was born in Alzey, Germany, in 1816, and came to this country in 1837 as the agent of the Rothschilds. He had been United States consul and minister resident at The Hague and received the thanks of the government for his services in those positions. He was banker, politician, and art patron, and an able man in each connection. His banking house is one of the first in the world.

Brave and Chivalrous Gentleman.

Above all, Mr. Belmont was a gentleman in its highest significance. An incident which resulted in his permanent lameness will prove the above statement. Early in the '40s he and a party of young men occupied a box at a theatre in Washington City. Directly across the proscenium in another box was a bevy of beautiful ladies. The young men had commented on the remarkable grace and beauty of one of the young ladies, then unknown to them even by name. They were still dilating on her grace when they passed out of the box. A southern "fire-eater" overheard their remarks, and made a comment which reflected brutally upon the whole sex. Those were the days of chivalry, and the young banker, though much smaller than the southerner, hotly resented the comments.

Scathing Rebuke of a Blackguard.

Facing the Southerner, who was noted as a bully and a dead shot, young Belmont said in deliberate tones:

"The dog who would utter such a sentiment insults the memory of his own mother, and is unfit for the company of decent men." The fire-eater turned livid with rage and replied:

"You shall hear from me."

Dueling was in fashion in those days, and Belmont was challenged. William Hayward was Belmont's opponent, and on the first fire he put a bullet into Belmont's hip.

Made Him Hero of the Hour.

The wound lamed Belmont for life, but it made him the hero of the hour. He married, at the age of 35, the daughter of Commodore Matthew Perry, every male member of which family has served with distinction in the navy. After the wedding the young couple took up their residence in New York. Mr. Belmont's mansion is at 109 Fifth avenue, and with its artistic possessions is valued at $2,000,000. His annual income from the stocks, bonds and government securities owned by him is said to be over $500,000. Mr. Belmont leaves three sons—August, Jr., Perry and Oliver.

A Man of Many Characteristics.

Mr. Belmont was a many-sided man. As an independent banker and as the American agent of the Rothschilds, he occupied a foremost place in the world of finance. As a Democrat he stood for years high in the councils of his party, and until 1872 occupied the chairmaushiip of the national Democratic committee. As an owner of fast horses and a patron of the turf his name has become widely known. Before he was 30 years of age he was a leader in New York society, and it is only within a few years that he and his family have given up that large interest in social affairs which once characterized them. In the world of art also Mr. Belmont was a prominent figure. He owned a collection that is considered one of the finest in the country.

His Love for Good Horses.

As a boy on his father's farm, he had acquired a love for outdoor sports. This passion remained with him through all his years of social and political activity, but it was not until about the time that Jerome park was established that he became identified with the American turf. Mr. Belmont became president of the jockey club, and at the close of the very first season of his presidency was the autocrat of the organization. He retired in 1881 from active participation in racing affairs, but eventually came back stronger than ever. Mr. Belmont took particular pride in breeding his own horses, and he was known as a man who would rather win a common purse race with a colt of his own raising than a stake worth thousands with a horse he had purchased. His colors were maroon and scarlet and no spot of dishonor has ever marked them.

A Fine Art Collector.

When Mr. Belmont was in Naples he gave much time to the study of art, and as soon as he acquired sufficient capital he began collecting paintings and statuary. When he went to The Hague as minister he became acquainted with the Flemish and French schools, and grew to be even a more enthusiastic collector than he had ever been before. He bought with great liberality and taste. His whole house is a museum and in the rear of his mansion, where he had erected a large gallery, he placed most of his pictures and treasures of art. What he brought together constitutes one of the finest and most valuable collections in the country. It is not confined to any single class of paintings, but contains examples of Knaus, Meissonier, Rosa Bonheur, Troyon, Galoit, Bouguereau, Vibert, Munckaczy, Meyer, Brion, and Madrazo.

His Personal Appearance.

Mr. Belmont was a man of middle stature, well built, with small hands and feet, with side whiskers that had turned gray, and a finely shaped, partly bald head. His features were regular, and his complexion quite fresh for a man of his years. His eyes sparkled, and in general he was the picture of a healthy old gentleman. Years ago he rode on horseback a great deal, and often stayed out in the field ten or twelve hours shooting. He was a great lover of whist, and frequently sat up at the Manhattan club until 2 or 3 in the morning playing the game. He also went often to the Knickerbocker and Union clubs. Those late hours, however, did not prevent his rising promptly at 8 in the morning.

"Tab" Pryor has been arrested at Waupaca, Wis., for the murder of Banker Mead in 1882. He was suspected at the time of the murder.

HARMONY IN SIGHT.

Result of a Conference About World's Fair Jurisdiction.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—A long meeting of the joint committee of the national commission and the local directory of the world's fair was held yesterday with a view of determing the much-disputed question of jurisdiction in the management of the fair. The report of the committee will show that the local board of directors concede the right of the national commission to control the foreign and the other exhibits, and in order to prevent further disagreements between the two boards it recommends the appointment of a reference committee.

Business Done Yesterday.

At yesterday's meeting of the national commission the report of the committee on awards was adopted. It recommends bronze medals and certificates instead of money premiums. A resolution was passed authorizing President Palmer to confer with the speaker of the house of representatives with a view of securing the proper appointment of two commissioners from Alaska.

IN PERIL ON THE LAKE.

Terrible Experience of a Shipwrecked Crew During a Storm.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Nov. 25.—The towbarge Newcomb, owned by Hall & Co., of Ogdensburg, went on the beach nine miles west of here in a blinding snowstorm Saturday night, and will prove a total loss. The Newcomb was in command of Capt. Charles Brown of Sackett's Harbor, and was bound from Ogdensburg to Charlotte in tow of the tug Proctor. There were other barges also in the tow, the Newcomb being the last.

Nearly Frozen To Death.

Off Great Sodus light the Newcomb's towline parted and it was quickly lost in the snow. An attempt was made to enter Sodus harbor, but the seas were too heavy and it was driven down the lake and on to the reef off Nine Mile point. It was found there at daylight Sunday morning with the crew of seven men lashed in the rigging and nearly dead from exposure. They were covered with ice and wet to the skin. Capt. Brown was unconcious when the life-savers reached the barge, and his condition is critical.

THE POSTEN-KEENER CASE.

Miss Frankie Lets Her Assailant Get Off with a Year.

JACKSONVILLE, Ills., Nov. 25.—The famous Posten-Keener trial has come to a sudden end, as many predicted it would. At the last moment it became evident that the young lady, who was shot almost dead by Posten, had a strong dislike to appearing against him in court and the darkey got off by pleading guilty and accepting a term of one year in the penitentiary. The great crowd that gathered in the court room to hear something sensational was thus disappointed. Posten's right arm is so disabled by the shot from Miss Keener's pistol that he will not be able to work while in the penitentiary.

Minister Denby Is Apparently Solid.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The World's Washington City special says: There is the best of authority for the statement that Col. Denby, minister to China, will not be removed by the present administration. He is not only the personal friend of the president, the intimacy extending to the families of both gentlemen, but he represents the best elements of Indiana Democracy. The president realizes that he would make more enemies by removing Denby than he would secure friends.

Smith the Forger Gets Rapid Justice.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Albert H. Smith, broker, church deacon and forger, through whose recent fraudulent practices the firm of Mills, Robeson & Smith, brokers, was ruined, was placed on trial at 4:15 p. m. yesterday, and at 5 o'clock the jury rendered a verdict of guilty. It was probably the briefest trial ever held here. A stay of sentence until Dec. 3 was granted. The maximum penalty is ten years.

Parnell Decides to Retire.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—The Central News learns from an excellent source that Parnell will announce at the next meeting of the Irish members his retirement from the leadership. Davitt, in a speech last night, said he believed that Parnell would prove himself a greater patriot than his enemies supposed by taking the course which would minimize the danger to Irish autonomy.

More Strikers on the C., and E. I.

TUSCOLA, Ills., Nov. 25.—The trainmen on the St. Louis branch of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois yesterday joined with the strikers on the main line and refused to take freight cars out. About 400 coal miners at Grape Creek will be thrown out of work if the strike continues, as the mine owners can secure no cars.

They Will Warm the Dynamite.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Carlo Duro t, and Joseph Dego were killed, and Rafello Roato and Carmen Purod seriously injured by the explosion of a dynamite cartridge yesterday. One of the men had placed the cartridge too near the fire to heat it, and this caused the explosion.

Costly Freight Wreck.

WEALTH IN RAGS.

A Chicago Miser Sent to the Bridewell.

BEGGING WHILE WORTH A MILLION

Story of a Peculiar Development of Human Nature—Peter Miller, Who Owns a Million Dollar's Worth of Land, Prefers to Beg His Bread, and Goes to Prison Rather Than Pay a Fine—Some Facts About His Existence.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—Old Peter Miller, the hermit of Cicero, was yesterday sent to the bridewell by Justice Doyle on a charge of vagrancy. The old man is reputed to be worth upward of $1,000,000. He owns 520 acres of land in the town of Cicero, sections 31 and 36. The Illinois and Michigan canal skirts the south line of the old man's property, and the rickety, weatherbeaten hut in which he lives is almost on the brink of the muddy stream. For over twenty years he has lived alongside the canal, making weekly trips to the city on begging expeditions. About a year ago his wife committed suicide by hanging. Since then he has lived alone and has only left the house on rare occasions.

The Old Man's Leather Bag.

His bed is a pile of rags, and when he lies down he puts under his head a leather bag which tradition says contains rolls of greenbacks and shining yellow boys. School children taunt him with cries of "Miller, the old miser," and about the first thing a Cicero baby learns from its mother's lips is: "If you don't stop crying I'll give you to old Miller." During the next sixty days the old man's tottering form will not be seen along the Black road. Sunday afternoon he was caught begging in front of St. Francis' German Catholic church on West Twelfth street. He was locked up at the Maxwell street station, and yesterday morning, in default of $30 fine, he was taken out to the bridewell.

When arrested he was covered with filth and vermin. His gray hair hung in long, matted locks over his shoulders, and his shaggy beard looked as though it had been divorced from a comb for many years. He wore a pair of trousers made out of tarpaulin, such as fishermen wear, and a black slouch hat covered with grease an eighth of an inch thick. A long grayish overcoat, worn and threadbare, an old ragged flannel shirt and a pair of moccasins completed his outfit. The old man shambles along with a cane in either hand, and it takes him from early morning till dark to walk from his shanty to the city and back.

Attacked Once by Thieves.

Eight or ten years ago some thieves, who had heard of Miller's fabulous wealth, broke into the shanty and tried to make the old man and wife divulge the place where their money was kept. The old couple were bound and gagged and when discovered in the morning were nearly dead. Neither would tell where the money was secreted, and the robbers left without a dollar. A little over a year ago the old man was arrested at his own threshold. He was dragged to the police station and treated shamefully, so he claims.

His First Bath for Years.

Miller was seen at the bridewell after he had been shorn of his tangled hair and been given a bath. The metamorphosis is so great that his neighbors will not know him when he returns upon the expiration of his sentence. Miller was deeply affected at his incarceration, and big scalding tears coursed down his checks. He speaks broken English, and one of the prisoners acted as interpreter. The old man was brought into Superintendent Crawford's office, where he stood leaning on his cane while recounting his story.

A Bargain in Real Estate.

"I am 66 years old," he said, as the tears welled to his eyes, "and its too bad to see an old man like me in a place like this." There was a pathetic tremor in the old man's voice and his frame shivered convulsively. When the property was referred to he brightened up. "The land," he said, "is mine—520 acres, sections 31 and 36. I worked hard for that property, and lived away out there on the prairie before Chicago was much of a city. I will sell it for $100,000 and then go back to Germany." Some of the land is worth several thousand dollars an acre.

Never Pays Any Taxes.

No taxes have been paid by Miller in years. When a "For Sale" sign is put up it is torn down the same night. The old man claims to be penniless aside from his property, and he positively denies the wild stories afloat in Cicero about his untold wealth. Since the death of his wife he has lived on bread and water. Miller was born in Holstein, Germany, in 1824. He came to America about the breaking out of the rebellion.

Fiendish Crime by Burglars—Their Intended Victim Saved.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Nov. 25.—At 1:20 o'clock yesterday morning flames poured out of the three-story brick building leased by A. C. Orcutt as a furnishing store. Fireman William Weiskoff burst in the door and found a clerk, Alexander Griffin, inside, bound hand and foot and gagged. The clerk was brought out, and while the firemen worked on the flames Griffin told this story: He said he was in bed in the rear of the store when three men entered. Two held him while one bound him securely.

Couldn't Have Saved Himself.

After that was done he was thrown on the floor and one man stood over him with a revolver. The other two went through the store and searched the till and then proceeded up stairs to the offices of Lawyer C. H. Woxon and Auctioneer Dillon. Something must have frightened them, for they beat a hasty retreat. The next thing Griffin knew flames were bursting forth in the rear of the store. He dragged himself to the front door and lay there until rescued.

A Terrible Experience.

OLD TOWN, Me., Nov. 25.—Robert H. Pue, who, while delirious recently, rushed from a lumber camp in the Caribou lake region, some 70 miles away from any settlement, was found three days later buried in twenty inches of snow, with both feet and hands frozen, and otherwise injured. He escaped from the camp in his underclothing and when his senses returned, he found that he was lost. He wandered about aimlessly, suffering intensely from cold and want of food. He will live.

CHANGEABLE STONES.

Peculiar Actions of Paradoxical Pebbles in the British Museum.

Among the thousands of wonderful things in the British museum none is more deserving of a description than the three little pebbles known to the geologist of that institution as the "changeable stones." The largest of the three is about the size of a cherry stone and of the same form, perhaps a little more ovate. Lying in its little glass case it appears to be perfectly opaque and of a yellowish color. Paradoxical as it may seem, it will scratch glass if it is drawn across it, but can itself be scratched with a common penknife. The various acids have no effect whatever upon it, but strange to relate, placed in water it soon becomes perfectly transparent and of a beautiful amber color.

The change begins almost immediately after the immersion at one end of the ovate in the form of a minute shot or bead, being in this way wholly unlike the two smaller "changeable stones," in which the transparency begins around the edges and gradually envelopes the entire stone. In the large one the little globe like spot increases by degrees until the stone becomes uniformly clear throughout. When removed from the water the end first to become transparent is first to become opaque, the dark colored globe gradually hiding the transparency of the whole stone.

Bergman, Veltheim, Magellan and Buckman, all voluminous writers upon the hydrophanes and other changeable stones, tell us that some of the steatites exhibit changes quite as astonishing as those shown by the three pebbles in England's great national curiosity shop. Buckman and Veltheim were the first to particularly inquire into the nature of steatite and stones of similar composition. Their report on the remarkable changes wrought upon a piece of steatite upon which they were experimenting may not be wholly uninteresting to readers who have a taste for the curious in its manifold forms.

It is as follows: "As soon as the stone was placed in the water we noted a peculiar musty smell, also that several air bubbles rose to the surface of the water. Soon the first stone showed signs of becoming transparent, then several others were dropped into the same vessel. Some of them became colorless as soon as they were thoroughly dampened; others took on a more or less deep yellow color; some acquired a beautiful ruby hue, and others still the color of mother-of-pearl or of a bluish opal. Whatever be the color of the liquid in which the hydrophane is immersed, it gains only its usual degree of transparency, with the color peculiar to it. When we look at it in its moist state we perceive a luminous point, varying in its situation as the position of the eye is altered.

The ancients also noticed the peculiar little luminous spot in the steatites and other hydrophanes, which was the cause of their calling such stones Oculus Mundi, they thinking the spot the image of the sun. According to Buckman, it is not the immediate picture of the sun, but a reflection refracted into the stone by the direct rays of old Sol, which may serve to remind us that the ancients knew a thing or two after all. —St. Louis Republic.

Electricity in Agriculture.

Some interesting electro-culture experiments described by Mr. N. Specnew have given results varying with the method of applying the electricity. Seeds of haricot beans, sunflowers and rye were soaked, electrified and sown, the plants thus grown attaining greater development and being brighter colored than those from untreated seeds, but showing no difference in yield.

Other seeds were placed in a plot between zinc and copper plates, which were connected by their upper surfaces so as to establish a current through the earth, and an increased crop and enormous size of the vegetables resulted. In a third experiment electrical collectors were mounted on insulated rods so as to give a highly electrified atmosphere. Rye, corn, barley, peas, clover, potatoes and flax were thus made to give an average increase of one-half in yield, and ripening was hastened. The potatoes grown were remarkably free from disease.—New York Telegram.

The Difference in Flag Stones.

Funny, isn't it, about these flag stones? Did you notice? After the rain—you can see it most any rainy day—some parts of the stone will be wet as can be, and other parts on the same level will be quite dry, as though they had been wiped with a rag just moist. Sometimes one flag will get your shoes all wet and the next will be a dry one. It's just a difference in the grain, that's all. This one is porous and the water is all absorbed, and the next one close grained and the water stays on top until it evaporates.—Interview in Detroit News.

A Wonderful Blind Man.

An ordinance in Sterling, Conn., exempts blind persons from taxation. Farmer Barbour claims exemption under the law, and proved to the satisfaction of an intelligent judge and jury that, though he could mow, hoe and load hay on a cart, he was stone blind. —Hartford Post.

Professor Pickering thinks that the term canal, applied to the marks on the surface of Mars, is a misnomer, and that there is no proof whatever of any one containing water. Had there been anything like a watery vapor his own powerful instrument would have developed it.

Gone For Good.

It is to be hoped that the barbarous bustle has gon for good, but it is certain the great discovery of Dr. Franklin Miles has come to stay and alleviate human suffering. This wonderful nerve food and medicine builds up worn out systems, cures fits, spasms, headache, nervous prostration, dizziness, sleeplessness, monthly pains, sexual troubles, etc. Mrs. John R Miller, of Valparaiso, Ind., and J. D. Taylor, of Logansport, Ind., gained 20 pounds a month while taking it. Finely illustrated treatise on "Nervous Diseases" and sample bottle of the Restorative Nervine, free at Tillson & Hayden's who guarantee it. 5

Ask Your Friend About It.

Your distressing cough can be cured. We know it because Kemp's Balsam within the past few years has cured so many coughs and colds in this community. Its remarkable sale has been won entirely by its genuine merit. Ask some friend who has used it what he thinks of Kemp's Balsam. There is no medicine so pure, none so effective. Large bottles 50c and $1.00 at all druggists. Sample bottle free. 2

Miles' Nervea nd Liver Pills

An important discovery. They act on the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new principle. They speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles and constipation. Splendid for men, women and children. Smallest, mildest, surest. 30 doses for 25 cents. Sample free at Tillson Hayden's. 1

A Bad Cough.

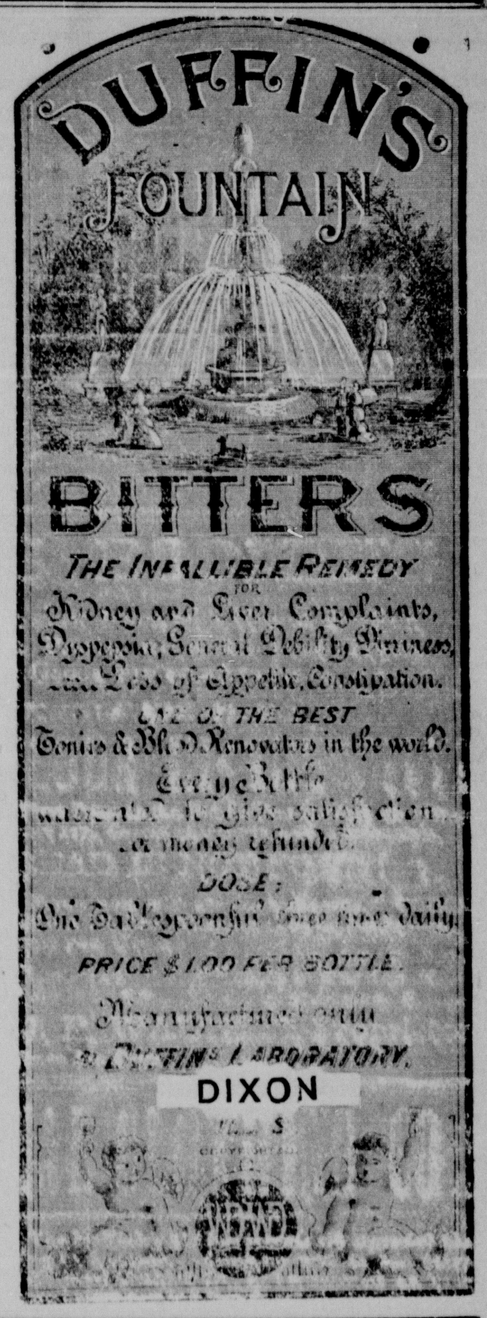

Many people fancy that a hacking cough is an inseparable accompaniment of increasing age. Others go about coughing and snuffing, without much attempt to alleviate their troubles. This was the case with John A. Bush, the well-known Odd Fellow and manufacturer of regalias. He had an obstinate cough that kept him "laid up" half the time. He thought that perhaps it came in part from his calling as painter, and he let it go. At last it became so painful that he was alarmed. He began to cough up mucus, streaked occasionally with blood. There was a tightness across his cheast that boded no good in the future. Mr. Bush took all the popular medicines of the day, with no avail. Finally a druggist told him that Reid's German Cough and Cidney Cure was guaranteed to cure the worst cough or cold. By this time he had become convinced that nothing would do him any good. He was in dispair, so that there was nothing in the nature of the faith cure to help the medicine, but to Mr. Bush's surprise he began to mend on taking, and by the time he had taken the second bottle he was a well man. His old hacking cough has left him, and Mr. Bush is restored to perfect health. He says, "You cannot say too much for Reid's German Cough and Kidney Cure. It is the most wonderful medicine I ever tried." This is the general verdict. Mr. Bush is one of the best known citizens in Peoria, and a leading Odd Fellow in the state. He will confirm everything that we have here said. It contains no poison.

The British parliament was opened at parliament house. London, to-day.

The schools at Madison, Wis., have been closed owing to an epidemic of diphtheria.

The Citizens' National bank of Dayton, Wash., capital $50,000, has been authorized to begin business.

A conscience contribution of $5 was received Monday at the treasury department from Portland, Ore.

A ticket-of-leave man named Walter Campbell Monday robbed the Ohio state prison of articles worth $75.

Cardinal Gibbons has addressed a letter to the Roman Catholic clergy requesting them to mark Thanksgiving Day by some special service.

The molders employed by the Minnesota Thresher company at Stillwater have struck because twelve convicts have been put to work in the foundry.

Jessie Adamson, a young woman from Chicago, committed suicide at New York city Monday because her money was all gone, and she could not get work.

Lionel Burnett, the son of Mrs. Burnett, who wrote "Little Lord Fauntleroy," is dying, at Paris. He was the model of the little lord in his mother's story.

Mr. August Belmont, the famous banker, died at his home in New York early Monday from the effects of a cold contracted at the horse show. He was in his 74th year.

The United States supreme court has affirmed the judgment of the circuit court for the southern district of New York, in the case of Shibuya Jugiva, the Japanese under sentence of death by electricity.

Eugene Field, journalist, got back from Europe Saturday, and showed an ax at his room in the Sturtevant house, New York city, which has been used by Gladstone in his tree-chopping feats at Hawarden.

A logging camp near Evergreen river, Wisconsin, was raided by Menominee Indians Saturday, the loggers driven away and the camp burned. The Indians claim that the men were trespassing on their reservation.

It is said that Postmaster General Wanamaker was caught recently on Reading stock, and lost a lot of money. At Washington City it is reported that he has recently borrowed $50,000, mortgaging his home in that city.

The tin box stolen Nov. 19 from John Keller, at Chicago, containing $100,000 worth of securities, has been found and most of the papers recovered. The robbery hid it under a sidewalk where it was found by children and the papers were scattered all over the neighborhood.

British Ministerial Programme.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—The queen's speech, read at the opening of parliament to-day, after the customary reference to the friendly relations of England with foreign nations, hopes that the negotiations which are progressing with France concerning the Newfoundland fisheries will soon lead to a satisfactory settlement. Her majesty regrets to announce that a potato famine is threatened in the west of Ireland, and trusts that measures will be taken to mitigate the distress. Bills will be introduced in regard to Irish land purchase, tithes, assisted education in Scotland, extension of local government in England, and, if the work of the session permits, local government in Ireland.

Been Twenty Years in Prison.

COLUMBUS, Ind., Nov. 25.—After twenty years' confinement in the prison at Jeffersonville James T. Stovey returned to Johnson county, his old home, Monday. Stovey is 64 years of age and was at one time worth $50,000. Gambling ruined him. He planned the robbery of a bank, was caught in the act and with a knife killed one of his pursuers, for which he was sent to state's prison in 1870.

Became Murderously Insane.

MARTINSVILLE, Ind., Nov. 25.—Jasper M. Rutan, a young farmer, became violently insane Monday and attempted to kill his father and mother. His brother arrived barely in time to save their lives. He was taken by strategy and conveyed to the insane hospital. Business complications were the cause.

The Long Fast of a Hog.

GOSHEN, Ind., Nov. 25.—William Long, who lives near Athens, threshed wheat early in September, and missed a valuable hog the same day. Sunday he looked under the straw stack and found the hog alive and well. Save being thirsty it gave no appearance of being the worse for its captivity.

Horse Sense.

A remarkable instance of the effect of a habit on a horse was witnessed at Edwardsville, Ala., the other day. J. A. Baker, a merchant, lives two miles in the country. For four years, every day except Sunday, he rode the same horse to his store in the morning, hitched the animal to the same tree and rode home at night. The horse is a sorrel with a white face and is known as Baldy. Monday Baker was quite ill and unable to come down to the store. His horse was turned into a pasture early in the morning, but when the hour at which Baker usually started to the store arrived Baldy jumped the pasture fence and walked up to the front gate.

He stood there several minutes evidently surprised that he was not bridled and saddled. Then he turned and walked off a short distance and came back to the gate. This time he only waited a few moments, when, with a low whinny, he turned and started to town. When he reached the store he at once turned around to his accustomed hitching place, where he remained until evening, when he went home. Next day Baker was able to come to town, but just to see what the horse would do, Baldy was again turned into the pasture. He again leaped the fence, waited a few minutes at the gate and then walked into town and took his position under the hitching tree.—Cor. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Progressive Trading.

"Please, sir," said a young man to the foreman of a paving gang on Selby avenue, "will you give me one of those round cedar blocks?"

"Those blocks belong to the city, my boy. If you are a taxpayer they are as much yours as mine, but you don't look like a taxpayer. However, I'll give you one if you'll tell me what you want it for."

"I want to cover it with carpet and make a hassock."

"What do you want of a hassock? You ain't a married man."

"Oh, no, sir; but I can trade the hassock for a bird cage to Mrs. Brown. Her bird is dead."

"But what do you want of a bird cage without a bird?"

"Oh, I don't want the cage, but I found out I could trade the cage for an oxidized picture frame."

"There it is again. What good is a picture frame without any picture?"

"But Mr. Oliver has got a picture of Gen. Sheridan, and he said he would trade me a hanging lamp for a good oxidized frame for it."

"So it's a lamp you want?"

"No, I've got no particular use for a lamp, but I can trade a good hanging lamp for a Persian rug, and I can trade the rug for a Mexican parrot, and Tom Higbee will trade me his banjo for the parrot. See? It's the banjo I'm after."—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

The Jig Saw Era.

With the increase of population, wealth and railroad communication, the early dwelling, still retaining its essential structure, grew into more ambitious expression. Its owner, following either his own taste or the equally untrained taste of the most available carpenter or "mill man," adorned it with all sorts of "ornamental" devices in woodwork—open work scrolls under and above its gables, jig sawed crestings on its ridges and wonderful frostings and finials on its gables.

The architraves about its windows were no longer content to be of simple boards, but were decorated by rosettes, star shaped ornaments, and all kinds of forms, suggestive of nothing so much as "noodles" in a German soup. The clapboards or matched ceiling covering it were laid in all directions, sometimes horizontally, as often diagonally in one or two directions, or else in basket fashion, the joints being at right angles with each other.—"The City House in the West," by John W. Root in Scribner's Magazine.

"Is this the best?" Is a question often asked, when medicine is wanted. The following are a few of the medicines of known reliability, sold by H. E. Donaldson druggist, of Dixon. They have many other excellent medicines, but these are worthy of especial mention:

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY, famous for its cures of severe colds and is a preventative for croup. Price 50 cents per bottle.

CHAMBERLAIN'S PAIN BALM, a general family liniment and especially valuable for rheumatism. Price 50 cents a bottle.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC, CHOLERA AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY, the most reliable known medicine for bowel complaints. It is especially prized by persons subject to colic. It has cured many cases of chronic diarrhoea. Price and 50 cents per bottle.

ST. PATRICK'S PILLS, for disorders of the liver and bowels. A vigorous but gentle physic that cleanses and renovates the whole system. Price 25 cents per box.

CHAMBERLAIN'S EYE AND SKIN OINTMENT. For tetter, salt-rheum, scald-head, eczema and chronic sore eyes. Price 25 cents per box.

He Yelled Kemp's Balsam.

I yell "Take Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure." I always do when I hear a man cough, and I can't help it. It saved me and it will cure you. I was threatened with pneumonia ast winter and it broke it up. It helps the children out when their throats are sore, cures their coughs, and tastes so good. The first dose helps you. So writes A. R. Arnold, engineer on the West Shore Ry., at Canajoharie, New York

Thousands Poisoned.

In a recent work on Heart Disease, Dr. Franklin Miles—the noted specialist—gives many new and startling facts. Thousand of people are slowly poisoning themselves weakening their hearts by the use of tea, coffey, tobacco and alcohol. These are HEART WHIPS, causing it to beat rapidly, thus gradually wearing it out, producing shortness of breath when exercising, pains in side and shoulder hungrey and faint spells. Finally swelling of the ankles and sudden death. For weakened and irritated hearts the press everywhere highly recommend the New Heart Cure discovered by Dr Francise Miles, which is for sale at Tillson & Hayden's Drug Store
